Mayor's Advocacy Council to present at Pardee Health Education Center

(Hendersonville, N.C.) Bridget Barron, RN, BSN, BC, director of medical detoxification and psychiatric services at Pardee Hospital, will speak to the Henderson County Mayor's Advocacy Council for People with Disabilities at the Pardee Health Education Center on Tue., Aug. 10, at 8:30 a.m.

Barron will discuss the admission procedure of the psychiatric unit at Pardee Hospital. This free presentation is open to new advocacy council members who are concerned and willing to attend a monthly meeting. Current members are free to attend the presentation as well. The presentation will include an open forum for discussion. No registration required for this free presentation.

The Henderson County Mayor's Advocacy Council for People with Disabilities has helped individuals with disabilities for more than 30 years to find jobs within the county. The mission of the council is to increase awareness and educate the community on disability solutions and provide barrier-free access to the community for individuals with disabilities.
